

Associated Press PASSER-BY COMFORTED DEAD WOMAN'S SON Duluth mother died after being hit by car

Car hits store, kills Duluth woman, 26

By RANDY FURST Minneapolis Star Staff Writer

A 26-year-old Duluth woman today. "The woman never knew was killed yesterday when she was struck by a car that went out of control and crashed into the side doors of a department store.

"It was terrible," a witness said

2 cars hit, kill Moorhead man

A Moorhead, Minn., man was killed yesterday when he was struck by two cars on U.S. Hwy. 75 in Moorhead, police reported.

The police said Marvin Ruud, 44, was walking along the side of the road at about 12:30 a.m. when a car that had just passed another car struck him. The second car also hit Rudd, police said.

In another accident, Stanley Vezina, 33, Eveleth, died when was drivin with another car on Minnesota 135 west of Aurora. Vezina's wife was taken to Virginia Municipal Hospital and Moines, Iowa, died in a Northfield hospital of injuries he received in a collision of two trucks. Ewing, who was driving a semitrailer truck, crashed into another truck from behind, the state patrol said. The accident occurred at 4:45 a.m. yesterday on Hwy. 1-35, about 12 miles north of Faribault.

A 28-year-old north Minneapolis man was charged yesterday with second-degree murder in the shooting death last month of Joan

The charge, filed in Hennepin

District Court, accuses Wilthian

W. Tucker, who lived with Ms. Crawford at 1300 Irving Av. N.,

of killing her sometime between Tucker told police he acciden-tally shot Ms. Crawford twice on

Jan. 28 during a struggle in her car behind a high-rise apartment

Crawford, 26.

Jan. 28 and Jan. 31.

Minneapolis man, 28, charged with murder in woman's death what hit her.

The victim, Shirley Stratioti, was entering Zayre's Shoppers City in Duluth with her two children when the car slammed into the store. Her children were hospitalized and four other customers also were injured.

Police said that the accelerator on the automobile, driven by William C. Lange, 84, Superior, apparently stuck. The car went through the parking lot, up a sidewalk and through two sets of doors at the shopping center be-fore being stopped by a wall-like partition inside the store. Lange was not injured.

'The wheels of the car were still spinning when it stopped," one witness said.

Another witness, Helen Wherley, Saginaw, Minn., said she was in the parking lot when she saw accelerate the car.

Mrs. Stratioti's two children were taken to St. Luke's Hospital in Duluth. Denise, 4, was on the critical list yesterday, but she was listed in fair condition today. Her brother, Scott, I, was reported in satisfactory condition.

The other four injured persons were treated at the hospital near Fremont and 12th Avs. N., called by Ms. Crawford's father to check on her. When police arrived at the house on Jan. 31

she was dead, lying on a blood-stained upstairs bed, the com-

The Hennepin County medical examiner said Ms. Crawford had been shot three times in the head and estimated she had been dead for about 48 hours before police

The complaint said police were the complaint said.

discovered her body.

plaint said.

Willmar's night of tigers, gorillas, terror retold by sounder of alarm

WILLMAR, Minn. (AP) — Peo-ple still talk about the day Morris Chargo, the poor man's Orson Wells, turned Willmar upside

It was 28 years ago Wednesday when Chargo adlibbed a story on his weekly KWLM radio program and sent panic-stricken parents into the streets for their children. He had broadcast that wild animals were on the loose in Wire services grabbed the story. Newspapers and radios across the country carried news about Willmar. It was the great circus-train

BUT CHARGO'S remarks about a fictitious circus-train stopover in Willmar were typical. He is a story teller, a country humorist who delights in hearing people laugh. "Everybody likes to tell jokes," he says, "I don't tell a joke on somebody else, I use me."

It all started when Chargo sponsored a half-hour radio broadcast advertising his business, the Willmar Produce Co. Chargo was the sponsor but others did the talking, until one day when he went on the air to pass along Christmas greetings to listeners.

Chargo was a bit nervous and the studies and broke up.

the studio audience broke up laughing — laughing probably be-cause a Ukranian accent is somewhat rare in Little Scandinavia. "I always thought I talk per-fect English," he said. "But my accent - I couldn't give it away, I couldn't bury it."

THE LAUGHTER sounded pret-

ROSES

Continued from Page 1A

said Tim Stewart at Greenleaf

Wholesale Florists Inc., 1522 Hennepin Av. "They're a limited com-modity that's in big demand."

A DOZEN roses today will cost you between $15 and $18 at most florists in the metropolitan area.

The price is apt to be nearly twice that, however, if you live

"The added cost of packaging and freight really adds up," Stewart said. He said that roses are the highest in price this year flower more than last year at this

"It's ironic," said Tom Herme, a local grower, "but this is a period of big demand and it's about the hardest time of year to fill

"Rose bushes will bloom about every six weeks during the spring and summer," Herme said. "In winter, it's about every nine weeks—and it's been even longer

"They're roughly 20 cents a outstate.

that he remembers.

time," Stewart said.

this winter."

ered that "no matter what I said, people laughed" he began doing the show. There was a live dance band, jokes, dedications and

On the night he turned Willmar upside down, Chargo had been to visit a friend, Emil Grams, hospitalized with pneumonia. Chargo promised he would dedicate a number to the friend but he didn't want to say that a cold had put Grams in the hospital. After all, he was a big man, a railroad detective. Chargo needed a story, a catchy opening.

"Something awful has happened tonight," Chargo began. "A circus train, caught in the Sout's Dakota blizzards, stopped in Wil mar to-night to get hay and meat for the

'One of the cages fell down and busted. Three tigers got out and the railroad detective, Emil Grams, killed two of them but he used up all his ammunition and one got away. Grams is in the hospital with seven broken ribs and a broken leg and enough stitches in him to make a circus

But that wasn't enough. He had to add a few more details

"A GORILLA weighing about 300 pounds is loose. Turn out all the lights in your house, even the basement and attic and garages, because these animals aren't used to the cold and will try to seek shelter. Get your children off the Chargo then turned to his band and the group played a waltz.

MORRIS CHARGO He ad libbed 1949 broadcast

It was the calm before the storm. But by the time the waltz ended, the radio station's phones were humming. The remarks were given added credibility when a fire whistle blew just after Chargo's announcement. A dairy was burning, but listeners assumed it was a wild-animal

What followed would have made a good TV script. When Chargo went out of the station, he noticed a crowd. Another crowd was at the police station. Several men had brought guns.

ELSEWHERE in town, children were being whisked off the streets and skating rinks. A church meeting of 250 was ad-journed abruptly.

Around the country, the story was big news. A San Diego newspaper ran a front page banner headline announcing the jungle attack. For weeks afterward sightseers drove through Willmar.

To this day, Chargo insists that the remarks were spontaneous and that he had no idea the story would be taken seriously.

Surprisingly, most of Willmar was chuckling about the story the was chuckling about the story the next morning — except for the police chief, who threatened to lock Chargo up. He also suggested that Chargo be banned from the air waves. Sixty-two people in Atwater, Minn. petitioned the station to take Chargo off the air. Chargo took a holiday from his chargo took a holiday from his show for several weeks.

TODAY, Chargo lives quietly in retirement in Hopkins, still sporting a pencil-thin mustache.

He reminisces about hiding in a pigpen to escape the Communists in the Ukraine and fleeing to America at the age of 16. He also recalls how his sisters were turned back at Ellis Island, New York, because of quota limits. They returned to Russia and after the Nazi invasion of Kiev, he never heard from them again.

Do people still talk about the circus train incident? "All the time," he says. "They will never forget it."

CORRECTION

The annual meeting of the South Hennepin Human Services Council will be at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday at Creekside Community Center, 98th St. and Penn Av. S., Bloomington. The Star incorrectly reported the day of the event in an article on Thursday.

Cheaper-medicine laws ignored, study claims

WASHINGTON (AP) - Although most pharmacists favored laws allowing them to substitute generic for brand-name drugs, few of them are taking advantage of these laws where they have been passed, a study says.

The National Retired Teachers Association and the American Association of Retired Persons reported yesterday on their study of drug-substitution practices in 12

In Michigan, for example, the study showed druggists substituting on fewer than two of every 100 prescriptions. It also showed that Michigan doctors refused permission to substitute on only six of every 100 prescriptions, although physicians fought the substitution laws.

MORE THAN 20 states and the District of Columbia have enacted legislation allowing the substitution of generic drugs, which are chemically the same as the brandname products but usually cost

The survey was conducted over the past three months in Arkan-sas, California, Delaware, Florida, Iowa, Kentucky, Maryland, New Hampshire, New Mexico, Rhode Island, Virginia and Wisconsin.

It found that substitution is being more commonly practiced by state and federal agencies than by the general population, with the result that far more of the savings have been to public treasuries than to private pocketbooks.

California, for example, estimated that it can cut Medicaid drug costs $2 million to $5 million a year by insisting on substitution.

FRIED CHICKEN SWEDISH MEAT BALLS PORK HOCKS & SAUERKRAUT DESSERT

SUNDAY, FEB. 13th ONLY 50° OFF PER ADULT 3-7 P.M. ONLY WITH COUPON

EXTRA

729-7933

SMORGASBORD

Herme said the shorter days during winter also inhibit plant "The car went out of control," personating a law school classgrowth and the rate of bloom. Mrs. Wherley said. "It was going right by me. It came from behind mate so he could practice law in Minnesota, was taken into custo-INCREASED PRICES for roses as the mother was walking towas listed in good condition. Theodore Ewing, 46, dy yesterday in Los Angeles. bar exam. in winter are routine, according to Stan Bachman, president of Bachward the entrance.'

man's florist shops. "Production is at its lowest in February," he said. "And the de-mand is about the highest of any period during the year. The pro-duction of flowers just about doubles during spring and summer.
"But you can't plant more to deal with the shortage in winter, because that would leave growers with a surplus in summer. Roses are cheapest, Bachman said, from May to November. A dozen roses will go for about $12 to $15 in season. During winter months, the price goes up about 20 percent at most retail stores. "We don't raise the prices because the demand is bigger," one florist said. "It's just that Valentine's Day comes at the worst time of year if you want to send

Former premier dies UTRECHT Netherlands (AP) -

Former Dutch Premier Louis J. M. Beel, 74, died here yesterday. He was premier in 1946-48 and in 1958-59.

FORD: Leading Stenvig critic

Continued from Page 1A

expanded budget and planning powers because of a city charter amendment. As chairman of the council's ways and means committee, Ford would be a logical choice as the head of Hofstede's budget staff.

"I'd consider the right job in Al's administration," he said.

FORD'S DECISION makes him the third alderman who will not be running for reelection. (DFL Lee Munnich, 7th Aldermen Ward, and Thomas Johnson, 2nd Ward, are running for other

Indications are that there will be some major changes in council leadership next year because of the number of councilmen who are not running again and because several are hoping for appointments in the Carter administra-

One 10th Ward DFLer noted that Ford barely defeated Inde-pendent-Republican Sally Howard two years ago and predicted that he would have a hard time defeating her again this year.

Bette Bedor, an unsuccessful DFL candidate for the state Senate last year, has been urged to seek Ford's seat.

A 10th Ward source noted that Bedor, a community organizer, did well in her legislative race in the 10th Ward and probably would do well in a race for alderman. However, he said, Bedor might have some problems in a crowded fight for the DFL endorsement.

Ford worked for former Gov. Wendell Anderson and the state consumer affairs office and is on leave from his post.

DURING THIS TERM, Ford often found himself the council's leading critic of Mayor Charles Stenvig, an independent, and gained a reputation as the council's wheeler-dealer.

"I've regarded myself as a facilitator - I assist others to bring things to fruition," he said. "I feel I've served the people in my ward by catching up on things that hadn't been done," he said, citing the Walker Library, Lyndale Farmstead and paving projects he shepherded through the council. 'We've stabilized the ward in its worst parts and improved the best parts," he said. On a city-wide basis, Ford cited his efforts to institute program budgeting, stabilize the city debt and create an office of program evaluation.

arrested by Los Angeles police Joel E. Handler, accused of im-

Minneapolis lawyer-hoax suspect

Handler told police he will waive extradition to Minnesota, according to Robert H. Lynn, an assistant Hennepin County attorney. Handler is charged with aggravated forgery and perjury. He is accused of assuming the identity of Thomas E. Hatten, a friend who had passed the Minnesota bar examination, so he could change Hatten's name to Joseph Handler. Handler had failed the

Thorne-Crest Retirement Community

"Adding Dignity and Life to Your Retirement Years"

Choose from...Studio, 1-Bedroom or 2-Bedroom Homes

THORNE-CREST PROVIDES

Name ....

Individually controlled heating and air conditioning

 Garages available Most transportation needs

 Elevator service Varied social activities

Gracious Dining

Security Entrance Private garden spots Special and 24 Hour Emergency Health Care

CUT	HERE	AND I	LEASE	RETURN	TO	THOR	NE-CRES	r
				. Addre	SS

What specific information would you like on a Thorn-Crest Home?........

Would you prefer we call you or mail you this information ?.....

Please Mail To THORNE-CREST RETIREMENT COMMUNITY 1201 Garfield, Albert Lea, MN 56007

Albert Lea (507) 373-2311 Minneapolis (612) 927-4578

Reproduced with permission of copyright owner. Further reproduction prohibited without permission.